STRANGER ENDS LIFE WITH NECKTIE

TULSANS SHOVE COLLEGIANS IN DEFEAT COLUMN

Poor Hitting Coupled With Numerous Errors Spells Disaster To Ada.

VISITORS RUN SMOOTH

Faultless Fielding Is a Big Factor in Victory of Schmidt's Nine.

Lack of hitting, backed by a family of errors, lost yesterday's game between Tulsa University and East Central to the visitors, who not only played an errorless game but outbatted the Ada men three to one. Final score was 7 to 0. Only four of the Tulsa runs were earned. This is the fourth victory this trip for Coach Schmidt's team, and L. Stewart, moundman for the visitors, got this third victory.

Although L. Stewart took advantage of an opportunity to save his arm by making his teammates help him, he also was one of the most dangerous hitters of the visiting team. Three hits, one a homer, and two runs were chalked up for him. Wamer, Ada moundman, did the only hitting for Ada, getting two doubles. Fielding of the Tulsans was the best local fans have seen this year, while that of the Ada men was poor.

The last of the two game series will be played today. Coach Thompson stated this morning that he was expecting to win the last game as he believed his men would come out of the slump of yesterday and show something worth while. At the best, today's game will be about an even break, both coaches are taking no chances of losing it. The story of yesterday's game is told by the minute playing.

First Inning.
Tulsa—J. Stewart out, Miller to Morrison; L. Stewart whiffed; Shunatona to first on Tinkle's throw, stole second; Hall struck out. No hits, no runs, one error.

Second Inning.
Tulsa—Herdon whiffed; Brownfield out, Miller to Morrison; Steppe missed three strikes. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Third Inning.
Tulsa—Tinkle popped out to Seavitt; Montgomery out, Steppe to Brownfield; Wamer fanned. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fourth Inning.
Tulsa—L. Stewart to first, infield hit; Shunatona safe on infield hit, L. Stewart going to second; Hall doubled to right, scoring L. Stewart; Hall stole second, Herndon whiffed; Brownfield out, Wamer to Morrison; Shunatona scoring on the play; Steppe out, Miller to Morrison. Two runs, three hits, no errors.

Fifth Inning.
Tulsa—Tinkle out, Steppe to Brownfield; Wamer doubled to left, stealing third; Miller flew out to Steppe. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Sixth Inning.
Tulsa—Seavitt flew out to Tinkle; White flew out to Wamer; J. Stewart safe on infield hit, stealing second and scoring on double to right by L. Stewart. L. Stewart stole third; Shunatona out, Wamer to Morrison. One run, two hits, no errors.

Ninth Inning.
Tulsa—White out, Williams to Morrison; J. Stewart walked; J. Stewart stole second, scoring on homer by L. Stewart; Shunatona safe on second on Miller's overthrow to first; Hall flew out to Wamer; Shunatona safe on second on fifth Shunatona stole third; Herndon

SENIORS ASPIRE TO ATTAIN WIDE RANGE OF AIMS

1922 Graduates Planning to Enter Colleges of Their Own State.

24 TO REMAIN IN ADA

All Members of Class Are Active in Some Line of Student Work.

Seniors at Ada high school are as interesting as any in the state. This fact is proven by statistics compiled from questionnaires returned by 39 seniors of the class of 1922. One of the most interesting facts is that 26 of the 39 have attended the Ada school for the full four years. Every one of the 39 are planning to attend college after graduation.

While several prominent colleges were mentioned, 24 are looking forward to enrolling in East Central college here. Many of these however, are expecting to enter Oklahoma University later. Nineteen have not selected any vocation and the majority of this number were girls. Seven are planning to teach, four were not yet certain of their vocation, and the other 10 were preparing to take their places in various walks of life.

Parents' Occupation Vary.
A majority of the seniors were members of the dramatic arts club, while membership in the high school athletic association came next. Occupation of parents of the students covered practically every well known business in this section, from farming to banker. The number entering college this year is an increase over that of any previous year, while the old records show that each year sees a larger number of high school graduates enter college.

Colleges which Ada students plan some day to enter are: A. & M. College of Stillwater, University of Oklahoma, 3; Oklahoma Baptist University 2; Tulsa University 1; Baylor University 1; Columbia 1; Crescent (Ark.) 1; Boston Conservatory 1; Hill's Business College, Oklahoma City, 1.

In selecting a vocation, one planned to be a concert reader, another picked journalism, one chose chemical engineering, one civil engineering, one electrical engineering, one bookkeeping, one music and art supervising, one will be a druggist, one an athletic coach, and one a musician. The others not decided.

Many in Dramatics.
Seventeen were members of the dramatic art club, 12 were members of the athletic association, 11 on the glee club, 10 members of the band, seven members of the orchestra, four members of the Y. W. C. A., three members of the chorus, three members of the brass quartet, two were members of the debate team, three on the basketball team, one was accompanist for the boys' quartet, and one a member of the H. V. I.

Attendance reports showed that more than 80 per cent of the seniors had been in Ada High a full four years. Five students had attended only three years, four had attended for two years and four for one year.

Many of the students had received individual honors. Several were marked leaders and all have taken part in some school activity. Statistics show that practically all seniors who are graduating this year are enterprising and those who have "pep and originality," school authorities declare.

Manson Hawkins is senior class president, Peanette Bobbitt is the secretary, Geraldine Hale is treasurer and Dollie Gay is the song leader. Although questionnaires were secured from only 39 students, the enrollment of the senior class is 50. Some of those who failed to return their questionnaires are prominent in school work.

NORTH CAROLINA MEMBER OF CONGRESS IS DEAD
NEWBURN, April 13.—Representative Brinson of the third congressional district of North Carolina died in Newburn hospital early today.

Mr. Brinson had been critically ill for several days suffering from organic liver for which he had undergone an operation. He was serving his second term in congress and was 50 years old.

Hush, Li'l Waitress, Don't Cry, You'll be an Expert Soon

(By Central Press)
NEW YORK, April 13.—The business of manufacturing feminine beauty, rapidly becoming one of New York's leading industries, is in the midst of the biggest boom in the history of artificial charm culture.

Women, alike from New York and the provinces, old ones and young, uns, skinny ones and fat, married or not, are making the "madames" and "mademoiselles" wealthy in their eagerness to avail themselves of the new scientific methods for remoulding the faces and figures bestowed upon them by Dame Nature.

Now Madame Jeanne-Jeanne—whose name before she started turning out beauty in wholesale lots was Katie O'Malley—operates one of the most popular beauty plants on the Avenue, and Katie, rather "Madame" says:

"Women may have to go hungry but they will have their permanent wave."

And what's the unwitting cause of the rush for artificial comeliness?

"Men." The proprietors of 2,000 beauty plants answer unanimously. "There are too many vamps floating around for the woman to hold a man's love unless she holds her beauty," said Madame Jeanne.

"Women here prize beauty above all else and girls patronize beauty parlors to keep their looks as long as possible."

"Of course some need more than others. Sometimes they want an extra chin removed. Sometimes a nose straightened or lips drooped, to say nothing of reinforced eyebrows or wrinkles removed."

In the winter beauty plants take the place of sports as complexion producers. A long walk will produce rosy cheeks, but so will a massage and a dab of rouge, and its so much more convenient.

But the present beauty manufacturers fear for the future of their business.

They say that during the present period of unemployment women who lost their jobs as stenographers, waitresses, clerks and secretaries have blossomed out as full-fledged experts in the art of revamping face, form and complexion, and are making a go of it.

MISS JEANETTE BOBBITT, daughter of Mrs. A. A. Bobbitt of 722 South Broadway, will be among the large class to receive diplomas this spring from the local high school. Miss Bobbitt has been a student in the school since her freshman year, and during that time has taken active part in many school activities.

She is secretary of her class, a member of the dramatic club, the athletic association and takes part in the chorus and domestic science work. She is planning to enroll in the local Teachers College next year, but later to go to Oklahoma A. and M. She has not chosen her vocation.

COUNTY SCHOOLS ENTER MANY FOR EVENTS OF MEET

Drawing for Places Due to Open Friday Afternoon in College Hall.

CHORUSES NUMEROUS

All Literary Numbers May Draw Many Contestants, Supt. Floyd Believes.

Drawing for sectional events of the ninth annual Pontotoc county track and field meet will start tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Teachers College, County Superintendent A. Floyd announced this morning, and immediately thereafter the literary events will open.

Out of town participants in the meet will arrive in Ada tomorrow morning in considerable number, it is expected, and most of them will remain until the conclusion of the meet late Saturday.

Prizes and awards, totaling in value about $160, are here ready to be awarded to winners, Mr. Floyd said.

Unusually heavy interest is being shown this year in the intellectual contests, a list of the entries in various sections indicates. Eight choruses are entered in B class and three in A class. In the literary events only two classes are scheduled, the high schools being arranged to A division and grades to B division. In the case of athletic events there are three classes: A for the larger high schools, B for the smaller high schools, and C for the grade schools.

Local Judges Selected.
Judges for some events have not been announced but will be the best local talent affords, the superintendent explained. Coach M. Z. Thompson of the college will have general supervision of athletic meet. Mr. Newcomb and Miss Kate Knight will have charge of arithmetic, Miss Stella Watson of spelling, and A. Stauffer of penmanship.

"Many of the pupils coming here for the county meet have no place to stay," Supt. Floyd said in a last minute statement on the meet. "We are eager to see them all well housed and entertained while they are our guests. All who will offer them board and lodging are asked to call the county superintendent's office and list their names."

Following is a general program for the meet:

First General Session—Friday, 2 p. m., Normal auditorium.
Preliminaries—Piano, declamation and reading, Classes A and B.

Second General Session—Friday, 7:30 p. m., finals in piano, declamation and reading, girls' chorus A, mixed chorus, A and B, girls' chorus B.

Third General Session—Saturday, April 15, 1922, 8:30 a. m., spelling, penmanship, arithmetic, Tennis, baseball and Class C track and field meet.

AGED MAN FOUND DEAD, LOCKED IN DARKENED ROOM

Mystery Veils Identity of Wandering Guest; An Inquest Is Held.

HAUNTED BY FEARS?

Bedpost Utilized To Affect Death, County Officials State Thursday.

Haunting memories which, according to his own statement, made a few hours before he was found dead, cast black shadows on his future, are believed to have caused the suicide in a local rooming house here last night of an unidentified man, about 65 years old.

His body was found at 11 o'clock this morning in a crouching position at the end of a necktie, the other end of which was fastened to a bedpost. Strangulation is believed to have been the immediate cause of death.

A coroner's inquest was to be held this afternoon before Justice of the Peace H. J. Brown.

The only clue upon which officers are working to unravel his identity was the name "Robert Miller" and "Memphis" scrawled on a piece of paper found in the pocket. Seventy dollars in bills was on his person.

Sheriff Bob Duncan and Assistant Attorney Hugh F. Mathis were called to the Katy rooms immediately after the body was discovered. The door was locked and a key, left on the inside, baffled first attempts to gain entrance into the room.

A quilt had been taken from the bed and was spread on the floor under the man's body. An empty bottle labeled "poison" was on the dresser. The room was dark.

Home in Philadelphia.
Manager of the rooming house said the stranger appeared yesterday and took lodging. He said his home was in Philadelphia. Later he roamed about abstractedly, it is said, several times inquiring about a train to Oklahoma City and referring to "an old crime". His conversation was disconnected and incoherent, the rooming house proprietor said.

The man had a gray fringe of hair and wore a black wig. He was fully clothed except for the tie, which had been removed to affect his death.

The body was removed shortly after noon to Criswell-Myers undertaking parlors where it will be held several days awaiting identification. An early report said the man was believed to be a missing city official in a county west of Pontotoc but this was later discounted.

IMMENSE POWER PLANT WILL BE STARTED SOON

(By the Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, April 13.—A development program for the state as a whole in an expenditure of $3,000,000 and the purchase of a site on the Arkansas river for a $2,000,000 power plant to supply Eastern Oklahoma, was announced here today by J. F. Owen, general manager of the Oklahoma Gas and Electric company, upon his return from Muskogee. The power plant will be erected directly east of Muskogee and work will be started at once, Owen said.

The power plant will be the largest in the state and expenditures of electrical distributing system for the eastern section of the state will be great, Owen said. A company to be known as the Oklahoma General Power company has been incorporated and is behind the enterprise, according to Owen. The directors, besides Owen are W. T. Emerson, secretary of the Oklahoma Gas and Electric company, Robert M. Rainey former chief justice of the state supreme court.

BIBLE THOUGHT OF TODAY
A SAFE RETREAT:—Be thou my strong habitation, whereunto I may continually resort; thou hast given commandment to save me; for thou art my rock and my fortress.—Psa. 71:3.

SERVICE—NOT SALARY

It is generally known that the Masonic lodge is always ably officered. In all the history of the lodge, dating back to the time of King Solomon's temple, so far as we know, there has never been any graft or anything that resembles graft. Other lodges whose officers serve without pay, we are told, have the same wonderful record. Other lodges, whose officers are paid regular salaries, do not have such enviable records. In fact, we recall hearing members of lodges with high officers on big salaries accuse these officers of getting away with money. Generally speaking, the business of the churches is handled efficiently and without cost.

This is proof, though it may not be entirely conclusive, that a person who really wants to serve the public cares little for the salary. We often wonder if we should not get better governors if they were asked to serve free than we now get by paying them a small salary. It certainly is food for thought.

Naturally purely clerical positions should carry salaries, for a clerical position should carry no power aside from the actual work. It is in administrative places where keen judgment is required and the filling of which will reflect credit upon the occupants that the salary does not or should not be a factor.

We should not think of making a public office such a sacrifice that the man of ability, though poor, could not accept it. The fact remains, however, that the best officers of lodges call upon poor and rich alike and they serve with the same degree of efficiency and for the same purpose, the doing of a public duty well.

The point we wish to make is not that the salary makes or unmake efficiency, but that the person who wants an administrative office on account of the salary, generally speaking, is not worthy of it. His one and only purpose in accepting a place of trust at the hands of the people should be to render a service to that public. More than that, a person is not honest with himself or others who tries to determine what the public wants and then approves that in order to be elected to office. He ought to state what he honestly believes, and if that belief coincides with the public thought, he should be elected, provided he has had sufficient experience to prove his capability.

If a person gives his honest beliefs and states what he will attempt to do, in case he is elected, and the public thought is not in accord, he ought not to feel badly if he is not elected, and he should not want to be elected under such conditions. In other words, an official should be willing to serve only in case his honest convictions are the honest convictions of a majority of the voters.

It will be a sad day in this country, and it sometimes appears to be approaching, when we shall develop an office holding class or a body of men who want the offices for the salary attached. For frankly, we do not believe that the state or the nation should or will ever pay as high salaries as the same keen judgment and knowledge will demand in private life. Honest service honestly rendered—the realization that this has been done is sufficient reward for a great man.

The News is pleased to have the University of Tulsa base ball team here to cross bats with the college boys. Coach Schmidt is a true sport and teaches his boys to play fair and win if possible. However, if the game goes against the Tulsa boys they always take it in good part, as real sports should. They never crow over a victory nor whine over a defeat. That is the true spirit and it should prevail everywhere. We hope to have the Tulsa boys here often.

The Kansas City Journal insists that the tariff issue is not a matter of sectionalism. If it can convince the New Englanders of that it will be a long step forward. Heretofore Republican tariff measures have been framed for the benefit of New England with a few scattering crumbs to other sections in order to win votes enough to put the measure through.

The bolshevik delegates went to the Genoa conference with an ultimatum to the powers. The latter came back with one so drastic that the Russians have not yet recovered their breath. The bolsheviks imagined they were about the biggest fellows going, but were promptly told that there are others, and that they must be good if they expected to be recognized as members of the family of nations.

The English revolution brought forth a Cromwell, the French a Napoleon, the American a Washington, but Russia has been in the throes of a bloody revolution for several years without producing a leader to save the nation. For once history has not repeated itself.

April 22 will be Arbor Day in Oklahoma. It will not take long to plant a tree on that day but it will be a standing memento and a useful one for many a day. This is something that can never be overdone.

Nurse Cavell Avenged.
(Kansas City Journal)

The execution of Armand Jeannes the infamous Belgian who betrayed Edith Cavell, writes the final chapter in one of the tragedies which stirred the world in the early months of the late war.

It is significant that the charges of high treason and espionage on which Jeannes was found guilty contained no mention of the despicable part he played in connection with the heroic English nurse. At least one other Belgian has been prominently associated with the case, but the evidence seems to have proved that Jeannes was responsible for the betrayal of the part Miss Cavell played in aiding Allied soldiers.

It was brought out during the trial that Jeannes had boasted of having been instrumental in the condemnation of 136 Belgians, French and British by German courts martial. Miss Cavell, for obvious reasons, was the most conspicuous victim of the despicable traitor, who in the darkest hours of his country's trials, did not hesitate to co-operate with the enemy in ferreting out the patriots who opposed themselves to the oppressor's power.

An interesting feature of the trial was the disclosure of the extent of the Belgian espionage system. Two of the prominent participants in the trial were members of this organization and were in a position to prove the falsity of the defense set up. Jeannes was apparently betrayed by his habit of boasting, for attention was drawn to him first by his own admissions, among which those he made to his landlady were the most damaging. Suspicion was first directed to Miss Cavell by the arrest of one of her secretaries and the finding of a notebook containing details of the operations of the organization with which she was connected.

Belgian justice has vindicated itself most effectively and no one can claim that Jeannes was "sacrificed" because of Miss Cavell's death, since she was only one of the 136 whom he confessed he had hunted to their deaths.

What Makes a Leader.

(Wichita Times)

The population of Windsor, N. H., is reduced to 15, but it still has a complete town government with seven officials jobs.

A community after a politician's own heart! A ward-heeler would describe it as "the right proportion."

Windsor was founded in 1798 in the heart of the New England deer country. Ten years ago it had 65 registered male voters.

Observe that, with population shrunken to only 15, Windsor still finds it necessary to maintain governmental machinery—town clerk, treasurer, selectmen (councilmen), school board and board of health. The philosophical anarchist, follower of Josiah Warren, with a beautiful system for imaginary Utopia, should be interested in that Windsor has recognized as necessity.

Shipwreck two men on a desert island and a government would be set up within 24 hours. The man with the largest club and the strongest arm would elect himself ruler. He would start out by announcing, with emphasis, "the best thing to do." If his companion manifested a stubborn will, force would be applied to compel submission. That is the germ of legislative and police powers.

From books like Jack London's "Call of the Wild," you know that every community of beasts, such as wolves, has for its ruler the one that can whip any comer.

The animal ruler is deposed when he runs up against a fellow beast that can conquer him.

So it was in the early stages of civilization. Then, with the dawn of intelligence, force had to share its throne with brains, personified in the medicine man of the tribe. Church clashed with state. Government by appeal to the emotions began.

We still have politicians swept into office by their shrewd knowledge of psychology—play on national emotions.

Gradually, with our flexible system of democracy, we are working toward government by intelligence—horse sense.

Visionaries who would do away with leadership are up against a peculiar natural law.

You see this law work in the Far North when 300 fish eggs hatch into as many baby salmon trout. As soon as they start swimming one instinctively steps out as leader, others follow as a natural course.

Takes a locomotive to move a freight train.

GOOD MUSIC AT THE MESWAIN THIS EVENING

The Meswain Theatre is offering an unusually interesting program this afternoon and evening. The program consists of high class musical artists and pictures.

Miss Olive Hutson is a musical prodigy. Her violin solos are especially chosen to please the lovers of high grade music. Being very young, and highly temperamental herself, her playing abounds with both pathos and fire.

James Jordan is a tenor who has appeared with several of the leading Symphony orchestras, and was a soloist of the famous Warwick Quartette. He has also sung in the principal cities of Europe. He has a very pleasing tenor voice, and is sure to win his audience.

Miss Marian Driscoll is a pianist of rare ability and charm, and has for many years held a dominating position in the concert world. She is also a fine accomplished singer. She has a delightful mezzo soprano voice, fitting admirably into the vocal duets and trios.

Lee Darnell is a versatile artist, playing on several different musical instruments and has introduced his solos on mandolin, violin, cello, ocarina, banjo, saxophone, and harp in every state.

This musical show which runs for more than an hour is being shown in connection with a pleasing picture program, namely, "Dangerous Lies," which is a paramount production starring David Powell and Mary Glyne.

MUTT AND KITTEN

A study of the life of chicken lice shows that there are a dozen different kinds infesting the same bird. Most of them, however, frequent the rear part of the body at least once in every twenty-four hours where they obtain the necessary moisture for their life and growth. This moisture is obtained from around the vent. This habit of lice would answer one method of treatment, the use of blue ointment.

Blue ointment applied around the vent and under the wing of each fowl affected seems to get rid of the lice in a very short time. A piece the size of a good sized pea is plenty for one bird. If the blue ointment is thick and heavy it should be melted so that it can be applied in a very thin layer. It is well to make a second application two weeks after the first, especially if the birds are badly affected.

Any of the advertised lice powders and many of the home made powders seem to work very well for a short time. Their results, however, are only temporary, thus involving considerable labor in holding down this trouble. Good dust wallows handy to the poultry house also add considerably in controlling this pest. Sodium fluoride can also be used to control lice. This is a common preparation which can be obtained at any drug store. It is applied by what is known as the pinch method. A pinch should be worked into the fluff of the tail, a pinch under each wing, a pinch on the back, and a pinch worked into the neck feathers.

Bumble Foot.

This trouble is an abscess on the bottom of the foot caused by a splinter in the foot or jumping off a high roost. If the roosters are at fault they should be remedied.

Tie a cord tightly around the leg above the foot to control the flow of blood. Open the abscess and thoroughly clean out the core. Disinfect in a dilute solution of tincture of iodine, after which apply a generous dressing of carbolated vaseline and bandage. In two days repeat the dressing of iodine and carbolated vaseline.

Peanuts.

I have for sometime been of the opinion that a great deal of the sandy land of Pontotoc county could be planted in peanuts to considerable advantage. That our readers might have some pointers from a man who is posted on the subject, I asked C. W. Zorn to write an article about peanuts. Here is what he says:

A few years ago peanuts were used only for eating. Farmers planted a few rows for the children, who picked them by hand and roasted them in the oven. We bought a sack now and then from the peanut roaster on the corner and fed peanuts to the elephant when we went to the circus; but little attention was paid to their cultivation and their value as a commercial crop had not been realized.

Thousands of acres are now grown in Georgia, South Carolina, Texas and Oklahoma—Oklahoma alone producing 32,000 bushels last year.

They grow best on sandy land and produce more than any other crop on poor soil, resist drought, are never troubled with insect pests and never fail; the average yield being 30 to 50 bushels per acre and sometimes as high as 75 to 100 bushels.

The best time to plant is from April 15th to June 1st. They should be planted in three foot rows and about eight inches in the drill cultivating them in much the same manner as cotton. The peanut harvest begins about Sept. 15th and should be over by Dec. 1st.

The uses of peanuts and their products are many and varied. Large quantities are shelled, and sold to candy manufacturers; a great many are used in the making of peanut butter, peanut oil and shortening.

Peanuts and peanut hay make splendid feed and poultry foods. Cake and meal much like that made from cotton seed is manufactured from peanuts. Hog fatten on peanuts, hens lay more eggs and cows give more and richer milk. The surplus crop can always be turned into cash so I would advise farmers who are seeking plenty and prosperity to plant peanuts.

University Head As Brainy As Ruth Is Demand of Schools

(By the Associated Press)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 13.—A university president as brainy as Babe Ruth is the need of America, Dr. A. E. Winship, editor of the Journal of Education, Boston, declared before the Kentucky Educational Association here today.

"Babe Ruth has a larger salary than any five university presidents," said Dr. Winship, "any ten state commissioners of education, any eight city school superintendents, and if he makes as many home runs as in 1921 he will have $30,000 more than the president of the United States. His remuneration is not the result of trick work, is not made at the disadvantage of anybody, not due to striking oil, and not due to politics nor business combination. It is pure intensified brain power such as no other American equals."

"Ruth's mind accurately estimates when and where the ball that is coming like lightning will cross the plate. At the same time he has decided just where to have his bat send the ball."

"America is waiting for an equally brainy university president to estimate what is best to equip students in college to give the best service in life."

ODESSA HARD PUT TO REGAIN STAND

Once Rich Ukraine Port is Struggling To Reopen Its Great Factories.

ODESSA, April 13.—This once rich port on the Ukraine is struggling to regain some of its former prosperity but it looks like a long, hard road for its 60 factories must first be rebuilt and financed by foreign capital. Just now there is none to be had.

How difficult will be Odessa's climb back to business may be gathered from the fact that, of 80,000 workmen employed about her port and in her industries before the big war, but 10,000 now have any sort of work. All are Soviet employees.

The chief production of the 12 factories in operation is in leather, agricultural machinery, grain bags, nails, cloth, varnish, shoes, glass and very poor machines.

The cost of production is constantly varying with the exchange, the price of food and labor and at the present time no fair comparisons could be made with imported goods.

The cost of labor so far has been negligible due to the forced nationalization of the workmen but it is steadily increasing as the men are free to find work. Those employed on piece work earn daily about 300,000 rubles, or 60 cents, whereas the regular wage scale is 100,000 rubles, or 20 cents. But these figures are unreliable, as workers often get permission to do outside work, receive a little food in addition or else their thefts of goods are winked.

DETROIT'S CRIME WAVE SUBSIDING POLICE DECLARE

(By the Associated Press)

DETROIT, Mich., April 13.—Detroit's crime wave, that reached its crest in 1920, has subsided to a ripple, according to Dr. James W. Inches, police commissioner.

"Passing of the orgy of spending, heavy sentences assessed against persons convicted of crime, and regaining by Americans generally of their common sense are the factors responsible for the passing of the crime wave," Dr. Inches asserted.

The head of the police department pointed out that there were 58 percent fewer crimes in this city during 1921 than in the preceding year. The percentage is based upon the major crimes—hold-ups, burglaries and homicides.

"Hardened criminals are staying out of Detroit because of heavy sentences imposed upon convicted wrong doers but we still have to contend with the young crop of criminals," Dr. Inches said. "These youngsters are new at the crime game. The war and its attending conditions brought them into being as crooks. Many of them earned more money during the war period than they ever had before and probably more than they ever will again. They grew used to living in comparative luxury. Then came the industrial slump and to stay straight it was necessary to go without the luxuries these persons turned to crime. Heavy sentences for those apprehended is having a good effect in reducing the ranks of the inexperienced criminals."

Sometime ago judges in Detroit announced a campaign to reduce crime and began to mete out heavy prison terms to convicted criminals. Many men found carrying weapons were given long terms. The number of these offenses has been greatly lessened here within the last year, police records show.

"The American public is beginning to think normally again and normal thinking does not countenance crime," the department head said.

He asserted he had reports from other large cities of the country showing a similar trend in crime reduction.

DOCTORS DECLARE

Doctors this morning reported that Virgil Woods, nine year old son of Rev. and Mrs. H. M. Woods, who was seriously injured while playing at school three days ago, was improved and past the danger point today. The left ear drum was burst and concussion of the brain has resulted from the fall the lad had at Hays school Tuesday.

Playmates of the young pupil said that while running about the school ground he tripped over a wire, hitting his head against the sidewalk with great force. The boy has been sleeping for the past 40 hours, with only a few disturbances. He is expected to recover.

The tracks of the Chicago, Burlington and Western railroad are slightly higher than the Baltimore and Ohio and will not be affected until later.

VIBRATIONS

By IDA W. GOULD

Melissa Day heard the clang of the brass knocker on her front door. Alone, remote from neighbors, no fear impeded her quick progress to the door; she switched on the electric light and threw its full glare into the inquirer's face.

"Jeffrey!" she exclaimed, the door wide open.

"Come in, right in there," pointing to a small room opening from the hall.

The man had white hair, yet a young face, the face of a man about forty-five. He obeyed the wave of her hand and in a moment was standing before the open fire, awaiting her invitation to be seated.

"Melissa closed the outside door; then smiling at the undecided expression which her visitor could not conceal, came quickly forward and grasped his extended hand with both of hers.

"So it was true," she murmured dreamily. "The power of my thought was strong enough. I did not believe it."

"I'm so glad to see you, Jeffrey; I wanted to see you again before we both took the Great Adventure."

It was not very cold, yet the man realized how cold the hands were which grasped his.

"Sit down, Jeffrey; your appearance is so unexpected I trust you understand me. I will explain my surprise at once."

By this time the man's face showed deep color, whether of emotion or confusion he alone knew.

Melissa Day commenced jerkily to explain herself, while the man watched her closely.

"I met someone a few days ago who told me if I sent enough power forth in my desires they would compel a response. I said to her, 'There is someone I parted from years ago. I desire to see him.' She said, 'You will before long.'"

The man's face was now very much flushed.

"How many years is it, Melissa?" "Ages in fancy, only thirty years in reality," answered Melissa.

She continued rapidly to question him concerning his life and the reason of his sudden appearance, although she still had an intuition that he was not quite frank on the subject.

"Jeffrey," she persisted, "how did you know I lived here?" "I took a chance, Melissa; the directory did the rest. Your hair is just as it was; look at mine."

"Then, you have felt a strong urge recently to see me, Jeffrey?" "Yes."

"That woman got two dollars from me. I suppose it could have been saved had I wished much harder."

Jeffrey smiled sympathetically and looked around the room, noted its coziness, and asked, "You live here all alone all the year?"

"Oh, no; my nieces are often here, and in winter I live in town. Why have you never called on me, Jeffrey?"

"I lived out West until a year ago. Business brought me to Boston. Some one wrote me you had married. I was surprised enough to find you in the directory as Melissa Day."

"What a wonderful power there is in thought," mused the woman, looking steadily into the blazing log fire. A silence fell as they both reviewed mentally early scenes in which they had been closely associated.

The man was first to speak. "How young you look, Melissa!"

"I suppose outdoor life and much dancing helped."

"You dance?" exclaimed the man. "Certainly. Why not? Are you disappointed, Jeffrey? Did you expect to find me wallowing and unhappy because I did not attain the usual prize, a husband?"

"No—I thought you would be different, that's all."

"Now, Jeffrey—be frank with me, has—oh—no—she never would have dared; has that woman communicated with you—oh—I believe she did—"

By this time Melissa was crying bitter tears of humiliation.

"Melissa, don't reproach any one. I should have come to find you if the woman had not asked me to do so."

"Oh—Jeffrey—I am so sorry I told that horrid woman about my dearest. Oh—you surely believe me—when I tell you I imagined your coming here was of your own volition."

"Of course I believe you, Melissa. What a blessing it is that I've found out (no matter how) that you did wish to see me."

"I don't agree with you, Jeffrey. The means employed should have been that you had an overwhelming desire to see me, and that is what you did not have. No—I can never look you in the face again."

Jeffrey manfully put his arms around Melissa and looked into her tear-begged face.

"Melissa, I'm going to ask you a question, and you'll have to be frank with me. Ready, dear?" "I ask you if your desire to see me is only an occasional vibration or a permanent one? If permanent, kiss me."

Melissa's face wore a very happy expression a few moments later, when the lovers sat hand in hand and saw glowing visions in the fire. Visions—dreamy, intangible, happy precursors of the remainder of the days which they were to spend together.

WRANGEL ISLAND TO BECOME PART OF CANADA, RUMOR

Map shows location of Wrangel Island in relation to Canada, Alaska and the Pacific coast of the U. S. Arrow points to Wrangel Island.

That Wrangel Island, the far northern land on which Viljar Stefansson planted the British flag last summer, will eventually be added to the Dominion of Canada is the belief in Canada. It is believed that the island was formally claimed in the name of Great Britain to avoid international complications. The island lies north and west of Bering Straits and Alaska.

STRONG NAVY IS LEGION'S ADVISE

MacNider Backs President In Opposition To Any Slash in Fleet.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 13.—The proposed reduction of the navy by Congress is "a disgrace and threat to our naval fleet," Hanford MacNider, national commander of the American Legion, said in a telegram to President Harding today pledging the support of his organization to the president in his fight for an adequate navy.

Influences in congress are trying to make the United States a secondary naval power. Mr. MacNider declared. The telegram which the national commander dispatched to the president read:

"The safety of our whole country depends first of all upon the navy. It is our first line of national defense in time of war and must be kept ready as an impregnable bulwark behind which complete national mobilization can be effected. Never again can we hope to prepare for conflict behind the navy of another country as we did in the world war."

"That we must train for war in time of peace was shown in the last war when we spent the first year of our participation in extending and training our navy for action due to unreadiness."

"The navy must be kept up to peace time strength. The American Legion is squarely behind the administration in its stand and believes that when the country at large wakes up to the magnitude of this threat to our nation's fleet, it will make its stand in the matter unmistakable," the telegram concluded.

Robert Wimbish, jr., a student in the University of Oklahoma, Norman, arrived in Ada today to visit his parents during the Easter holidays.

FIGHT ON NAVAL STRENGTH COMES FORTH TOMORROW

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 13.—The fight expected in the house today over the personnel section of the naval appropriations bill went over until tomorrow because of the death of Representative Brinson of North Carolina.

House leaders in announcing the adjournment said the bill would come up tomorrow, with probable results of voting before night on amendments to the bill increasing the strength from 65,000 to 80,000. The amendments also will provide for 6,000 apprentice seamen, against 2,000 now requested.

Despite claims by "big navy" men that pledges had been obtained to assure adoption of their amendments, Chairman Madden of the appropriations committee declared the bill would go through as framed.

Suggestions were made from some quarters that the house adjourn over the Easter holidays, but it was opposed.

ISSUES CONFUSE GENOA EXPERTS

Leading Economist Tearing Hair Over Problems at World Conference.

(By the Associated Press)
GENOA, April 13.—The extreme complexity of the technical problems connected with the economic reconstruction of Europe is shown by the fact that the keenest of the economic and financial experts here admit that they are hard put in their efforts to see light.

The British economist, John Maynard Keynes, whose book "The Economic Consequences of Peace" caused such a sensation, is described by one of his friends today as figuratively tearing his hair in an endeavor to draw up a practical plan for rehabilitation of Europe financially. Mr. Keynes delivered a lecture to the British delegates on problems before the conference, while Prof. Cassell, noted Swiss expert, talked on financial and economic subjects to another group of delegates—all in an endeavor to find some reasonable project for European relief.

Frank A. Vanderlip, New York banker, is welcomed by the European delegates and experts on account of his practical experience in finance and he confers daily with them.

Mr. Vanderlip told the Associated Press that even if the Genoa conference accomplished nothing tangible it was already a distinct success because of the great benefit derived from the round-table meetings of statesmen and experts from all countries of Europe.

GOD OF FUN

By DORA NUTE.

After a wakeful night of careful consideration, Mabel Sugden had arrived at the decision that as the Women's Reform league candidate for mayor, she could no longer tolerate the frivolous conduct of William Sugden, her husband. She would move her personal belongings to Dreamvale, their summer cottage, and proceed to set William free, to pursue his chosen career as satellite to Miss Malzie Lightfoot of the "Follies."

As she did not care to have this news disseminated before she was ready to act, she informed the servants that she wished to rehearse her speeches for the coming political campaign and they could take the day off. Having thus cleared the track, she set about sorting and packing her belongings.

Mr. William Sugden, waking from an early morning nap, his first at home for several weeks, groaned and rolled over. Last night's party had certainly been the best of a series. Malzie was a "peppy" little bunch of frills. She could make a fellow forget for the time being that he was an old codger.

He tried to select another more comfortable position, but no amount of moving seemed to relieve the steady boring ache in his back. Then he thought himself of the liniment in the bathroom, and with hope again returning, started for the medicine closet.

With her early start and no interruptions, Mrs. Sugden had systematically cleaned out all of the closets, sorting and packing methodically. Everything had been examined and packed, or rejected, except one small box. She drew this to the middle of ever have worn these!

On the top lay a pair of round-toed, black silk dancing slippers and a black and orange harlequin cap. She smiled faintly as she regarded these articles; how absurd to think that Mrs. Mabel Sugden, candidate for mayor on the Women's Reform league ticket, could even have worn these!

She put on the slippers and placed the harlequin cap over her carefully waved coiffure. Removing a layer of tissue paper, she uncovered a black harlequin suit, trimmed with big dots of orange velvet, which she held in front of her.

Really, while she had become more dignified, her figure was no bigger than when she wore this absurd dress at their parting co-ed banquet. She had made an adorable "Yama Yama" girl. Billy had called her a puff of thistle down and how they had laughed and laughed when she danced and capered before the big figure of the "Billiken."

She delved into the box further and there was the Billiken costume with its grinning features. Making a mocking bow, she hummed lightly and made a few tentative steps of the old dance. Then with sure, certain steps, she started to dance to the tune of "My Baby, Baby Billiken."

William Sugden, making his way with suppressed groans down the hallway, caught the refrain of the song and listened, shaking his head.

As he drew near his wife's chamber, he was startled to hear a clear burst of the chorus. "For you're my Baby, Baby Billiken."

Entirely forgetting his agony, William drew himself quickly into the shelter of the portieres and peeked into the room. His wife, entirely unaware of the presence of another person in the house, was beginning the second verse of her song. As she glided and bowed before her Billiken on the sofa, William Sugden had one of the inspirations which had lifted him from a side street hardware retailer to owner of a chain of stores.

Controlling his desire to groan aloud, he dropped softly to the floor and sitting bolt upright, with his arms close to his sides in the posture of the original Billiken, he slid himself by degrees into the center of the chamber, while his wife gestured and sang to the Billiken. When she reached the chorus, she whirled around several times.

His wife gave a startled shriek at this apparition; then the desire to laugh overpowered her completely and she burst into peals of laughter. The human Billiken never stirred, and through her clasped fingers, his wife beheld the sad, sorry, eminently plump Billiken staring at her.

She tried to regain her dignity, be the purposeful, progressive Mrs. Mabel Sugden, but how could one look dignified in a full-trousered harlequin's suit? With a little rush, she ran to the Billiken, and throwing her arms around him whispered softly in his ear, "for you ARE my Baby, Baby Billiken."

While he kissed her and promised to help on the mayoral campaign, if only she would just love and sing to her old Billiken, William never mentioned that the first flow of tears had been caused by the acute agony in his back.

To Reclaim Used Motor Oil.
A company has been organized in London with the object of reclaiming stale lubricating oil. The waste oil can be bought at prices ranging up to about $100 per ton and in some cases can be had for the cost of collection. It is planned to establish immediately a plant near London with a capacity of treating 50 tons per week, which, it is believed, can be easily collected in London and other points in the various cities of the kingdom.—Scientific American.

Air breathed daily by a human being weighs about six times as much as the food and drink he consumes in the same period.
